

ANANT – Accelerating Net-Zero & Next-Generation Technologies for a Sustainable India

Industry Overview

The Indian HVAC market is on a rapid growth trajectory, projected to surge from $11.8 billion in 2024 to $29.4 billion by 2030, with a 16.3% CAGR. This expansion is fuelled by urbanization, rising disposable incomes, and a growing demand for energy-efficient climate solutions. The adoption of smart, IoT-enabled HVAC systems, along with government-backed green building initiatives and stricter energy efficiency regulations, is reshaping the industry. Additionally, the booming cold chain sector, industrial growth, and infrastructure development are driving unprecedented demand. As businesses and consumers prioritize sustainability, automation, and superior air quality, India's HVAC sector is poised for transformational growth.
